The goal of this proposal is to develop new methodology for peptide synthesis, especially for the preparation of beta-amino esters. The use of di-tert-butyl dicarbonate to produce beta-amino esters is proposed, as well as the use of the same reagent for the preparation of azido-beta-alanine. The chemistry will be tested in simple peptides to prepare peptidyl beta-lactams and in dipeptides to prepare dipeptidyl beta-lactams. The method should be applicable to the preparation of all classes of beta-amino esters. The beta-lactams formed in this manner could be potential inhibitors of beta-secretase, the enzyme that is believed to be responsible for the production of amyloid from beta-amyloid precursor protein. Dipeptidyl beta-lactams may also be developed as a new class of inhibitors of proteases. The general method should be applicable to the preparation of cyclic peptides and, by extension, linear beta-lactams. Thus, this work will allow access to new classes of non-peptidic inhibitors of biologically important enzymes.

The presidential election is over, but the war on Fox News still rages on. It is constantly being discussed in the national media. Representative Adam Schiff, chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, has recently unveiled an opposition research report on Fox News's election coverage. He has identified every "fact" that Fox News has reported on and ranked them from "one" to "five" based on how "true" each was. (1) Now, I would like to suggest a new "fact" for the chairman to work with, and to make my argument for why this new "fact" should be added to the "list", I first would like to point out a few things about the new "fact". First, if the chairman had been a diligent, unbiased, and professional investigator, he would have contacted the corporate offices of all the television networks (ABC, NBC, CBS, and PBS) to find out if they covered any of the candidates that ran against President Trump. Then he would have checked the editorial board of each newspaper and checked their coverage of the candidates and campaign in the
