Scada bizviz 3524 manual A: As you suspect (and as @PrrCot87 is already pointing out), the nagscreen popup might be generated by the software as part of the uninstall mechanism. If you try to uninstall it (say with Control Panel -> Programs and Features -> Uninstall Windows Updates), it should allow you to uninstall it completely. However, if you are trying to uninstall it by opening a.CAB file (or.EXE file) in Explorer, this won't work. This is because the Windows installer adds some registry entries to disable it. You can still uninstall it via the command line: c:\> regedit There are two locations the installer registers it's own uninstaller:
HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SOFTWARE\Microsoft\Windows\CurrentVersion\Uninstall\Iconics_Genesis_32_Platform_8_0_Uninstall HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SOFTWARE\Wow6432Node\Microsoft\Windows\CurrentVersion\Uninstall\Iconics_Genesis_32_Platform_8_0_Uninstall Delete the file located at:
HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SOFTWARE\Microsoft\Windows\CurrentVersion\Uninstall\Iconics_Genesis_32_Platform_8_0_Uninstall Then simply run the command line: c:\> regsvr32 \MACHINE\SOFTWARE\Microsoft\Windows\CurrentVersion\Uninstall\Iconics_Genesis_32_Platform_8_0_Uninstall This will remove the registry entries and allow you to completely remove the software (both 32- and 64-bit). Wednesday, December 31, 2007 My older son is driving all day tomorrow. I so want to be around him and celebrate with him the best way, but I just can't imagine what that is. I have work tomorrow but I don't have plans. The older one asked for a piggy back ride and the babysitter is already here... guess I will go on some long walks with the kiddo. I just hate that I am not going to be there when he gets home. So sad... For the last couple of months I have felt this vague sense d4474df7b8
