A: Your error is: TypeError: 'NoneType' object is unsubscriptable So you need the if statement to test whether the request was successful before you are assigning a value to it. if request.status_code == 200: retval = request.content # now assign to the variable The way you have it, the retval will be assigned the value of None. Ask HN: Which is a better career, Software Engineer or Designer? - sacat I am new to the HN community and I want your opinions: Which is a better career, Software Engineer or Designer? Is it possible to be both at once? ===== latch Both are good. Software Engineers design things, and design engineers build things. The difference is how much time you spend actually programming. An Engineer who designs things and spends a good deal of time actually coding can do both and is valuable to many companies. A Programmer can design software, but rarely does it require Engineers. An Engineer can program, but rarely does it require Engineers. ----- duncans A good Software Engineer is someone who is both a Software Engineer and a Designer. A good Designer is one who designs and builds things and a Software Engineer is one who designs and builds things. ----- 1123581321 Yes. Engineers can program. Designers can program. Engineers can design. Designers can engineer. Engineers who program and design are better. ----- phantom_oracle Both are equally valuable. For more on this, you can read up on Valve's official guide on what Valve employees do: [----- bjourne Sometimes its possible to do both at once. [
