Adobe® Photoshop® CS6 software delivers even more imaging magic, .Q: Laravel - How to change in table the value of the same field of a specific row I have a table with 1000 items. My client wants to change in every item the value of the column b. When I click on the button in my view, the value of the column b changes with the last value, but it only changes in the last element of the table. My code for my view: My Controller: public function change(Request $request) { if($request->is('edit')) { $item = Item::find($request->item_id); $item->status = $request->status; $item->b = $request->b; $item->save(); return view('administration.items.item_details', compact('item')); } else { $item = Item::find($request->item_id); $item->status = $request->status; $item->save(); return view('administration.items.item_details', compact('item')); } } My model: belongsTo('App\User','user_id','id'); } public function item_add() { return $this->

It has a bug that prevents saving files that are created with it from being saved with the proper Photoshop version, resulting in corrupt files. This information was provided by Adobe on September 20, 2014. 10/16/2010 Review: Know a 10/16th Day of Caring event somewhere in the U.S.? Editors Note: Erin is a regular contributor to TenthMan On Scouting's e-newsletter and has volunteered for 10/16 Day of Caring events in the past. She works as a line coach and youth-coach for a youth hockey team and has recently decided to do some more "off-ice" volunteering. (More on that later.) This past October, I was fortunate enough to join the 10/16th Day of Caring event in Norristown, Pennsylvania. The event began in the evening with a dinner at the hotel and speeches from youth advocate Jamie Johnson, Teen Challenge Director Eric Hennen, and former PA State Senator, and Teen Challenge Board Member, Chester Gillman. These speeches touched on the need for teenage people to reach out to one another for guidance and support, and how to look to those who are experiencing issues in their lives. The event continued with the placement of 10/16 Day of Caring stickers on the doors of Youth and Family, the local Teen Challenge rehabilitation center and "Hope Place", a local homeless shelter, and then it began. The Day of Caring stickers were placed in front of the Youth and Family and the Homeless Shelter. While waiting for the Youth and Family program to get started, we were treated to a video that was played for us about the specific needs of the Youth and Family program. The fact that the program does not open until after the school bell is dismissed in Norristown area schools was addressed in the video. 10/16 Day of Caring stickers are placed in front of Youth and Family (photo by Erin Murakami) The 4bc0debe42
