for Men's Health magazine. "Women's heights are not high enough. Women can't drive cars of that height. So, if a woman is shorter than this height, they will always find it impossible to buy a car that comes in a small box," a salesperson of a car company, speaking anonymously to the magazine, said. "Of course, it's not necessarily a big deal for men to have a tall car because they are tall, but if you're short, it's impossible to have a car of that length. Only one company makes such a model." The Japanese government has set targets for women
