he changed. Startled by the view of miles of snow-capped mountains and a glimpse of sun setting, the 26-year-old “grew up” and began drinking and smoking pot regularly, according to friends and prosecutors. He wore a black T-shirt or hoodie almost every day, often with a red or blue bandanna or bandana knotted around his neck. ADVERTISEMENT Now, he stands accused of gunning down four people in a Santa Rosa, California, Mexican restaurant early Sunday, including a former girlfriend whom he had repeatedly threatened to kill. Prosecutors say Rofe’s motive may be linked to his obsessive behavior. But they also said the former Marine is a target of an FBI investigation. Rofe is charged with four counts of murder, which carries the death penalty, and multiple weapons charges. During a police interrogation, Rofe offered a
