one of the few times of the year when I don't spend my evenings glued to the television or bored out of my mind in a queue for some crappy fast food. So naturally, I have a full case of the Christmas wobblers. Christmas wobblers being the British term for madly excited and slightly over-excited about Christmas. I'm not madly excited, nor am I over excited. I'm content, which is why I bought a Black Friday deal so I could spend the last few days of the year and all the days of 2020 on holiday. Nowadays, my parents never need to worry about stocking up. I buy my own presents. This year I am picking up my own sister, my mom's maid of honour and my own good friends for celebrations with tequila.

But here are a few things I want from Amazon. 1. The Raiford 210L This weekend I found a couple of Amazon deals that made my heart swell. One of them was a book I've been meaning to read for a while. The Raiford 210L is an awesome book. My female friends call me a 'book person'. I am constantly browsing bookstores for amazing reads, so if you've read the book and like it, do me a favour and tell me what you thought. I have a Raiford 210l, which is just a book bag with a det
